INTRODUCTION.

THE Collection of Greek Coins, the first portion of which is described in the following pages, is perhaps one of the most extensive and most interesting that has ever been formed by a private individual. Commencing quite in his early days Sir Edward Bunbury devoted his whole life to its formation, as well as to that of his collection of Roman coins, which was sold at this house in June of last year. Sir Edward Bunbury did not confine his attention like some collectors to securing only the finest and most artistic pieces. Copper coins were as interesting to him as those of the finer metals; in consequence his collection presents us with an exceptionally complete series of Greek coins of all parts, of all periods, and of all metals, viz. gold, silver, and copper. It is pre-eminently the collection of a scholar, and the useful purpose which it served is clearly illustrated by the late owner's numerous literary works. In fact it may be said to have formed the basis of his scholarly History of Ancient Geography published in 1879, his numerous articles in Smith's Dictionary of Greek and Roman Biography and Mythology, and the corresponding volumes of Geography, and his many contributions to the pages of the Numismatic Chronicle. Sir Edward Bunbury was a collector in the highest sense of the word, for not only was he an admirer of the fine works of ancient artists, but he combined with this last study the highest qualifications as a man of letters. His early success at Cambridge, where he graduated as Senior Classic in 1833 and took the Chancellor's Medal, marked him as a scholar of the first rank, and his pursuits and studies in after years well maintained his early reputation.

Owing to the great extent of this Collection it has been deemed advisable to dispose of it in two portions. The first portion, which extends to 1258 lots, includes the coins of Italy, Sicily, European Greece, Crete, and the Islands. The second portion will comprise the coins of Asiatic Greece, Africa, &c.

A perusal of the pages of this Catalogue will show the completeness of the collection; nearly every city of Italy and European Greece of any importance and its rulers, of whom coins are known, are represented. The extent of certain sections is almost overwhelming, and shows what pains and perseverance were devoted to the formation of this Collection. Those sections which call for special notice are—the more important cities of Magna Graecia (Tarentum, Heraclea, Metapontum, Croton, Rhegium, &c.); Sicily (Camarina, Catana, Leontini, Messana, Segesta, and Syracuse); the Carthaginian and Siculo-Punic coinages; Thrace, Macedon, Bœotia, Attica, Elis, and Crete. The series of Syracuse is very complete and comprises the works of nearly all the great die-engravers of that city, especially among these are Kimon, Evaenetos, Eukleides, Eumenes, and Phrygillus. There is also an example of the Demareteion, one of the most remarkable coins of the whole Greek series and no less than seven examples of the Dekadrachms of Kimon and Evaenetos, all in fine condition. The series of Alexander the Great is the most extensive ever brought together by a private individual, and includes specimens of the coins struck by that monarch over the whole extent of his wide dominions. The Athenian series, with the numerous tetradrachms bearing magistrates' names, is equally complete, and that of Crete has scarcely ever been surpassed.

Of the extreme beauty and fine condition of many of the coins, the plates which are appended to the Catalogue will give some idea, and not a few are as remarkable for their rarity. Seldom does such an opportunity offer itself to collectors to add to their cabinets, and remembering the recent dispersal of the Montagu Collection of Greek coins it seems more than probable that a long time will elapse before another such chance will occur.

Under present arrangements the remaining portion of the Bunbury Collection will be sold at this house in December next.

INTRODUCTION.

THIS Catalogue contains a description of the second and final portion of the extensive collection of Greek Coins formed by the late Sir Edward Bunbury. It comprises the various issues of Asia Minor, Africa and the adjacent Islands.

Though this series may not include such fine artistic coins as were to be found in the first portion of the Collection, yet it is none the less remarkable. In some districts of Asia Minor such as Caria, Lydia, Phrygia, Pisidia and Cilicia, the coinage was principally of copper; but even amongst these are very many coins, which are equally as interesting to numismatists as those of the finer metals. As regards completeness this part of the collection is quite equal to the previous one. The series, however, which above all others calls for special notice is that of the Seleucid Kings of Syria. We may safely remark that never before has so fine a series of these coins, both in extent and for condition, been brought together by a private collector. In this respect it can well be compared with those of the Kings of Macedon and of Athens, which formed part of the previous sale.

It is well known that Sir Edward Bunbury in his classification of the coins of the Seleucidæ was not quite en accord with other numismatists both of the past and of the present time. In an article which he contributed to the Numismatic Chronicle (Third Series, vol. XIII, pp. 65-107) Sir Edward Bunbury explained the principal points, on which he differed from other writers on the subject. The difference of opinion was chiefly in the attribution of certain coins to Antiochus III, which had been previously given to his predecessor Antiochus Hierax, and in the classification of the coins generally of the former. It would be quite out of place here to go into any detailed account of Sir Edward's views, beyond stating that he divided the coins of Antiochus III into five principal classes according to the portrait of the King, which in his opinion marked the various issues of the chief districts of his extensive dominions. This classification under classes has therefore been adopted in describing these coins in this catalogue. The other parts of the collection will be found to contain a number of very remarkable coins in gold and silver; and as it would far exceed our limits to enumerate even a small portion of them, we think it better merely to call attention to the seven autotype plates appended to this catalogue, where a selection of the chief rarities are illustrated.

 Professor Gardner (*B. M. Cat.  Prof. Gardner (B. M. Cat. pp. 20-21) has classed other tetradrachms with similar portrait to the above, but with rev. Apollo holding arrow, to Antiochus Hierax; but Sir Edward Bunbury attributed them to Antiochus III (see Num. Chron. 1883, pp. 89-93, and lots 469-472, Class II).

Chron.* 1883, pl. V, 3), fine and rare [Pl. IV] 1

 Sir Edward Bunbury divided the coinage of Antiochus the Great into five principal classes according to the portrait of the King, which, in his opinion, marked the various issues of the chief districts of his extensive dominions. This classification, which Sir Edward Bunbury published and illustrated in the Num. Chron. 1883, pp. 86-94, has been adopted in the present instance. Class I Sir Edward Bunbury considered to belong to the first coinage of this reign.

467 Tetradrachm, Class I, similar to the preceding coin, but on rev. on left, one monogram, ΞΥ only, wt. 262 grs. (figured in Num. Chron. 1883, pl. V, 1), well preserved and rare 1

468 Tetradrachm, Class I, similar type to lot 466, but portrait slightly varied, and on the rev. monograms (3) on left, on right and in the exergue, wt. 262 grs. (figured in Num. Chron. 1883, pl. V, 2), fine, with good portrait and rare 1

 The coins with this portrait are those which Prof. Gardner attributed to Antiochus Hierax.

471 Tetradrachm, Class II, similar type and portrait to lot 469, but of rather finer work; on the obv. the head is surrounded by a fillet border; and on the rev. before Apollo the letter Τ, wt. 257 grs. (figured in Num. Chron. 1883, pl. v, 4), very fine and rare 1

472 Tetradrachm, Class II, similar type to lot 469, but on the obv. the head of the king is in higher relief and the portrait a little older, and on the rev. drapery over right leg of Apollo and on omphalos; in field on left, monogram of ΗΔ, and on right ΦΥ (B. M. Cat. p. 20, no. 10), wt. 263 grs., fine and rare 1

473 Tetradrachm, Class II, same type and portrait as the preceding coin; but on rev. monograms, on left ΗΔ; on right ΗΛ, wt. 260 grs. (B. M. Cat. p. 20, no. 9), well preserved, rare 1

Chron.* 1883, pl. v, 5), very fine and rare [Pl. IV] 1

 The peculiarity of this class is that there is always a fillet border on the obv. and a symbol instead of a monogram on the reverse.

475 Tetradrachm, Class III, same type and portrait as the preceding coin, but symbol on the rev. a cornucopiae before Apollo, wt. 260 grs., fine and rare 1

476 Tetradrachm, Class III, same type &c. as lot 474, but symbol on rev. on left, anchor, wt. 263 grs.; another, similar, with symbol on rev. bow in case, wt. 238 grs., well preserved and rare 2

479 Tetradrachm, Class IV, similar type to lot 478, but with still order portrait of king, and on rev. Apollo is naked, no drapery over leg; before him, lighted altar; behind, mask; in exergue, monogram of ΠΜΡ (?), wt. 261 grs., extremely fine, wide-spread type, unpublished [Pl. IV] 1

 Sir Edward Bunbury considered this and the following coins to lot 483 to be of Bactrian fabric; the portraits are all dissimilar and not of Antiochus III (Num. Chron. 1883, p. 93). The above coin is attributed by Prof. Gardner to Antiochus Hierax.
